

MASSEY WARNS OF 'TIMID' COURTESY

McGill Receives $4,000 Award

by George Schafer

True courtesy is not timid, but courageous, Governor General Vincent Massey warned yesterday.

Addressing a 50th anniversary luncheon of the Canadian Club of Montreal, he suggested that Canadians "will always be in danger of permitting a strong and courteous toleration of essential differences to fall into a timid indifference to what we regard as essential truths."

His Excellency was speaking in his capacity as honorary president of the club, immediately before presenting McGill University and the University of Montreal with $4000 awards.

The donations, to be known as the Club's 50th Anniversary Student Aid Funds, are to be used "to assist students by way of loans or otherwise with a view to fostering the aims of the club."

Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill, and Msgr Irénée Lussier, rector of the U of M, accepted the donations.

His Excellency said Canadians are tending to "avoid all argument over those matters which need to be resolved by discussion . . . We are in grave danger of confusing debate and argument with quarrel and dispute."

Toleration not Indifference

He said that toleration is not indifference and is not timid — "it is the fruit of an honest clearing of differences — without a frank exchange it becomes a weak and negative affair."

The Canadian who "truly loves his fellows," the Governor General said, "is the one who is prepared on suitable occasions to tell them quite frankly that he thinks they are wrong and why."

"No one can be too polite to argue, but we may be too lazy and too timid."

Love not Sentiment

He added that love of one's country is "no mere sentimentality," but rather a "profound, a constant and a careful concern — the toughest and most powerful thing in the world."

His Excellency said Canadians are that "we are being called upon to face a crisis which must reveal our quality, which may enable us to express it."

And it is during these moments of crisis, he said, that "the meaning of existence stands revealed; that is when it is given to some to express that meaning in enduring form. Then so many nations, facing the prospect of ruin, have seen the beginning of new life."

His Excellency said the sentiment of Canadianism is "love of country . . . this is a movement of the whole being toward the object of its concern. It is a positive thing."

Humorous Sketches

'Wet Paint' Revue Title

The Red and White Revue, McGill's major theatrical production, will be produced this year under the title "Wet Paint," it was announced yesterday.

Officials said the show would be an authentic musical revue, for the first time in many years, consisting of a series of fast-moving humorous sketches.

"It is common knowledge in show business circles that a review is the most difficult type of production to present," they said, "for it demands a higher caliber of script as well as superior acting."

"We feel the material in this year's show satisfies these requirements, and are sure that Red and White audiences are going to see one of the liveliest and most hilarious shows in years."

A professional touch is being added to the revue this year, with the addition of a professional director and choreographer. Their identities will be revealed shortly, it is expected.

The revue executive contains both old and new faces. Heading the list is producer Ron Clarke, who has had experience on four previous shows. Clarke wrote much of the script for last year's production and was musical director. Besides working on the revue, he has written several popular tunes, latest of which is coming out under Spiral production. The singer is Joan Fairfax and accompanist Denny Vaughan. Clarke has also written much of this year's show in conjunction with script co-ordinator and lyricist Ron Wollner.

Ukrainian Week

Kirkconnell Lectures Tonight

Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University, New Brunswick will be the guest speaker tonight at a Ukrainian Week lecture, in Moyse Hall at 8:30 pm.

The special week, sponsored by the Ukrainian Club and SCOPE, began yesterday. Dr. Kirkconnell will speak on "Moral Integrity In International Policy."

He will be introduced by Dean H. N. Fieldhouse, and Dr. F. Cyril James, Principal, will officiate. A reception will follow in the Union Lounge. Dr. Kirkconnell received his formal education at Queen's University, Kingston, and Oxford University, England. He is a noted author and has received several international honours.

His most widely known books include "Canada, Europe and Hitler", and "Seven Pillars of Freedom". The former was the first and only large-scale exposure of the work of Nazi agents in Canada; the latter exposed the nature and extent of the Communist conspiracy in our country and remains an authoritative and enlightening commentary on this subject.

As a result of his work in this field, Dr. Kirkconnell has been attacked on the Moscow radio and in such Communist papers as "Izvestia", "Pravda", and "Trud". Dr. Kirkconnell is also an expert on central East-European Slavic subjects and affairs.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

All lectures and laboratory periods on the Campus are cancelled between 10:00 am and 11:00 am on Friday, 11th November, to permit staff and students to attend a memorial service to be held in Redpath Hall from 10:40 am to 11:00 am.

T. H. Matthews,
Secretary of Senate.

"MEET THE FACULTY" SERIES STARTS TODAY

The "Meet the Faculty" Series of Tuesday noon-hour discussion will be inaugurated at 1 pm today at Hillel House. Dr. Frededick Elkin, assistant professor of Sociology at McGill University will be the guest, and will initiate the discussion to which the series will be devoted under the general title of "An Inquiry Into the Meaning of an Education".

Jonathan Fineberg, Hillel cultural chairman, has announced that the "Meet the Faculty" Series this year will take the form of a group discussion, rather than a formal lecture followed by questions. The guest professor will join the Hillelites for lunch, and, following the introduction by the student chairman, questions will be invited from the floor. This should result in a group conversation and an exploration of the topic.

In order that the event be a success it is imperative that everyone cooperate. The luncheon will start at 1 pm and will be served at the tables. If you wish to attend the series please make your reservation in person or by telephone at the Hillel office. Seating arrangements will be made for those bringing their own lunches and for those who have already eaten.

Dr. Watson Kirkconnell

GRADUATE PHOTOS

This is the last week when the Graduates can have their pictures taken. The final deadline is Saturday, November 12. All graduating students in ALL the faculties must be photographed by then or their pictures will not appear in the Annual.

Editorial

WAIT TILL NEXT YEAR

The place that sport occupies, or, rather, should occupy in a University, has long been a subject of controversy. At the present time, our Canadian universities do not emphasise athletics to the extent that their counterparts below the border or in the Communist countries seem to do. This is by no means a deplorable situation; on the contrary, we find much to recommend it.

Nevertheless, we, as well as many McGill students, feel that the most significant development on the campus this fall has been the resurgence of the McGill football team. Far more than any other single activity, intercollegiate football brings McGill's name to the public at large. In this way, football can play an important role in the university's public relations. Although these relations certainly do not demand a perennial championship team, a hard-fighting and reasonably successful football squad is a definite asset.

Furthermore, a contending football team brings the added blessing of a considerable amount of revenue to an institution which has no difficulty making proper use of it. In fact, the maintenance of McGill's extensive and excellent recreational facilities as well as the other athletic teams would be extremely difficult without the receipts from intercollegiate football games.

Thirdly, and perhaps most important, football is the best medium for the creation of esprit de corps on the campus. As the university grows and each student can come into contact with an increasingly smaller percentage of the student body, there is a proportional decline in school spirit — another bane of the modern, faculty-like college. The football team gives the numerous students and graduates who make up the McGill family one of their few opportunities for solidarity; the football championship is one of the few common goals.

It is therefore very heartening, after long years of famine, to see a glimmer of hope for our football team. Coach Sullivan and his charges are to be highly commended for the excellent job the Redmen have done this season. In his second year at McGill, Larry Sullivan has come up with a substantially improved team which produced a corresponding increase of interest, both on and off the campus. With most of his players returning next season, he and McGill can truly say: "Wait till next year."

PARKING FOR CHARITY

Combined Charities is the only charitable campaign that is sponsored at McGill by the Students' Executive Council. The funds raised from this drive are divided equally between the World University Service (WUS) and the local City charities. Any scheme which results in additional revenue to the campaign can only be welcomed and applauded.

Such a scheme has been suggested to and adopted by the SEC. It is proposed that during the Fall season, football fans be allowed to park on the campus grounds for a small fee, all proceeds thus received would be contributed to the Combined Charities fund.

The proposal thus will not only provide a service to the City's football enthusiasts but at the same time, will serve a worthwhile charitable purpose.

AN OVERDUE ACTION

The Redpath Library announced recently that it would take steps to curb talking in the reading rooms. Such action is long overdue. For years it has been impossible to study in the library because of the noise.

It is a shame that such disciplinary measures should be necessary. One would think that by the time a student reached university he would be mature enough and polite enough to do his gossiping in places other than the library or the lecture room. Apparently he is not.

At any rate, we sincerely hope that the library is successful in turning the reading rooms from a social club into a place to study.

Out of the Depths

Sir:

An excellent example of the depths to which The McGill Daily has sunk was your editorial "A Shining Example", which appeared in the November 8 issue. Your editorial writer was much concerned with the fact that the devotion and loyalty of Hitler's vanguard, Heinz Linge, to his master, as related in the present Star series, might poison the minds of our Canadian youngsters.

The Star's main objective in presenting these articles was not to glorify a man for devoting himself to an idiot, but to clear up the aura of mystery concerning the death of Hitler, an aura which undoubtedly, has paved the way for the return of many neo-Nazi parties.

Furthermore, sir, Mr. Linge gives us an authoritative account of the "Fuehrer's" inner life. Until now the Allied people have never learned of the man himself, he who perpetrated, among other things, the murder of six million Jews. The need for the "other side" of the story is great, even though the makeup of that "other side" was hideous. Is it not the right and duty of our free press to fulfill this need?

Hy Eiley,

Brahm B. Campbell.

Reply to "Yellow Press"

Sir:

If Paul Hudon wants to follow the Christian concept of ethical behaviour, he'd have to let someone dig up the worms in his lawn, and in fact even supply the spade. The idea seems rooted in the Christian assumption that if a man steals your cloak, let him have your underwear too, — and join some nudist colony, perhaps?

Whoever wrote the letter entitled "Yellow Press" writes as if his opinions must be accepted, — or else. He's ready to accept freedom of the press, — provided it doesn't disagree with his views, an attitude held by far too many people in this "enlightened" age. He gives me the impression that he thinks this way:

"I consider Mr. Kingsbury's views an insult to me, since he's trying to take away the crutch I lean on; to insult just little me isn't enough to support my argument, therefore I'll declare that he's insulting all other McGill students, and so have many allies to prove how right I am." (Might makes Right, you know).

Did Mr. "Yellow Press" conduct an opinion survey on the campus or am I very wrong if I state that I find most of the students I meet refreshingly relieved of religious dogma and intolerance?

He says: "Sir, you have no right to insult my God," thus suggesting that he be considered an arbiter of human rights. Then again, I don't see where Mr. Kingsbury implied insult in his learned articles, but rather he seemed to me to write as one who is justifiably fed up with the fact that the God believed in for so long by Man has ignored the human race and wants no part of it. If your anonymous correspondent sticks to his narrow and outdated views despite all the facts, then clearly his place is not in a "studious university". His religious views belong to the era of unscientific attitudes of thought which still plague us.

We have reached the cosmopolitan age, and the success of the human experiment is now dependent upon how well one can adjust to neighbours of all races and viewpoints. Some people will always attempt to paddle against the rapids, I suppose; it's too much like work to investigate and consider new knowledge, and some people prefer the line of least resistance. Your correspondent can yell all he wants, but that won't change the facts.

Ron Fleishman.

Open Letter to Piccolo

Dear Piccolo,

I am certain that I am backed by the majority of the music loving student body when I say that your criticisms of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra are most enlightening. Neither can any criticism be brought against your choice of a nom de plume which is most amusing.

There is, however, one point on which I frown. This is the fact that you do write under a pen name. Your criticisms are so profound and so enlightening that you do your public a great injustice by not revealing your true identity. I should greatly appreciate it if you would rectify this situation. A disappointed fan.

Les Enfants Terribles

This evening I witnessed a tragedy.

In the accompaniment of a friend from the Sorbonne, I viewed a presentation of Cocteau's "Les Enfants Terribles." The scene could not have been more appropriately termed. The audience's reaction gave me a nauseous impression of McGill's artistic intellectualism. Formerly I had thought that perhaps beneath this film of superficiality, there existed some insight into the literary realm of genius, within the group of alphabetarians who attended this university. But like a troupe of neophytes, the audience repeatedly managed to laugh and sneer, wherever Cocteau presented them with some subtle insight, into the warped microcosm of these two children.

Do not misunderstand me. It is not that the majority of participants did not act like civilized beings. Rather that they epitomized the unfortunate median in which their minds floated. It was only beyond their grasp, or possibly even their potential to possess a soul.

Not that any of us aspire to reach the heights of a man like Cocteau, but with the slightest effort we might at least begin to appreciate him, in the same shadow of his light.

What explanation had I to offer to my visitor? Defend you innocents as being of an English culture, thereby not possessing sufficient insight into such matters? proclaim that you were a misrepresentation of McGill cross section, or possibly say you were? Do not frenzy; I did not possess the ability to speak, I was so angry.

POST-MORTEM

by Irwin Sankoff

It will be the Golden Gaels of Queen's University and the Toronto Varsity Blues this Saturday at Kingston for the Intercollegiate championship. Queen's went through the regular season losing only one game while Varsity were downed by Queen's and McGill. The Golden Gaels suffered their sole defeat at the hands of the Blues. Toronto will be defending the title which they won last year for the eighteenth time since 1898. As far as the Gaels are concerned, this will be their twelfth try for the crown which they last won in 1937.

With the football equipment being packed away in mothballs for another year, let's take a look at the hockey scene. Hockey Robillard's hockey Redmen have been working out on the Forum freeze for the past two weeks in preparation for the coming season. The Redmen open the Intercollegiate circuit this year on November 26 when they journey to Verdun to take on the U of M Carabins. The Redmen play in Toronto in December and open their home schedule during the second week in January. In between the Varsity and U of M dates the Red and White travel to Ann Arbor, Michigan for a pair of exhibition contests with the University of Michigan Wolverines.

The McGill squad has nine men back from last year's team which finished second to the Toronto Blues. Varsity went through an undefeated season as they swept all opposition aside while McGill ended up with a 6-6 record, the best record the Redmen have compiled in several years. Paul Dingle is the survivor of last years blueline brigade. Several men have turned out to try and fill the bill in the other defence positions, but Robillard isn't too certain who will be wearing the Red and White sweaters on opening night.

Brian McMullan, Bruce James, Doug Maule, Jimmy Grant and Len Sigurdson all have been out with the team and appear to have the inside track to places on the Redmen lineup. The latter two have just completed excellent seasons with the football Redmen.

Up front Robillard has only one forward line intact from last year as the Pete Constable, Gord Currie and Jackie McMullan unit will be playing together once again. This was the Redmen's highest scoring line last season accounting for 20 goals and 27 assists. Constable was the team's highest scorer with nine goals and eight assists. The Redmen's top playmaker, Dickie Baltzan, is back for another whirl this year. Baltzan had a lot of hard luck around the net last season scoring only three goals, but his 13 assists made him second high scorer on the team.

Are Bank Poets Really Necessary?

Someone has said it's significant that two of today's best poets, Walter de la More and T. S. Eliot, once worked in banks. The significance escapes us, and when on English bank investigated, they weren't able to find out what these versifiers thought of banking. However, they did squeeze a confession out of a poet on the staff. Said he: "As a poet takes his time, and that time is unpredictable, I feel that for poetry, banking is as good a career as any." The poet laureate, John Masefield, started life as a banker too, but changed his mind.

As far as the Royal Bank is concerned, we confine our verse to efforts like "Save more in '55" and "Make earning time saving time". Neither is much comfort to the average student who usually has a tough time making ends meet, let alone saving anything, but we want you to think kindly of the Royal. Even if you're just a pitance, we'll gladly keep it safe for you in Savings Account. There are six branches near McGill - Peel & Sherbrooke, St. Catherine & McGill College, St. Catherine & Stanley, Sherbrooke & Bleury, Sherbrooke & Guy and Sherbrooke & Fort. The Royal Bank of Canada.

- meet will be held. Deadline to register is 7:45.

The following girls are asked to turn out for speed coaching from 5 to 6 on Wednesday: Vaughan, Cooper, Judy Earle, Mimi Ellis, Denise Farnham, Dorothy Greatham, Ann Hamilton, Liz Lobel, Diane Matheson, Carol Moffat, Judy Rochester, Rose Rochman, Shiela Roy, Carol Shetler, Daphne Turpel and Helen Tucker.

The final tryout for the Intercollegiate team will take place Tuesday November 15 at 8 pm.

ENGINEER'S FALL INFORMAL

Informal English, Lesson No. 1

*Twice Brillog and the Engineer
Did give and gimbel at the Dance,
All mimsy were the Bottled Goods,
And the Artsman stood askance . . .*

—from "A Plumber in Wonderland"
by Reviarx Murp.

This is a good example of the "non-sense poem", in which no attempt is made to make sense. Something that DOES make sense, though, is to go to the Engineer's Fall Informal this year, at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium.

The dance, which is a campus-wide affair, will be held on Saturday, November 19, from 9.00 to 12.00 P.M. Format will be cabaret-style, with music by the Russ Meredith Band. Admission will be two dollars a couple, and tickets will be on sale from 1.00 to 2.00 P.M., November 14 to November 19, in the Engineering Building.

INTER SOCCER TEAM REACHES FINALS

The McGill Intermediate soccer team won the right to meet Sir George for the Intermediate championship as they beat MacDonald College 5-2 last week. Carpenter scored three of the McGill goals while Bartes and Eaton notched singletons. The Red and White led 3-1 at the half.

In the other half of the semi-finals the Georgians defeated RMC by a 4-2 count. The date and place of the final game have not as yet been decided due to several problems which have arisen. Though the McGill goaler Arnie Lidsky, let in two goal he was commended by coach Bob Wilkinson for his fine performance.

The league in which the Inters are a member is an exhibition league made up by several universities and is not sanctioned or supported in any way by the Ottawa St. Lawrence Conference. Thus there is no cup or trophy at stake for the winners.

For this important game Wilkinson will probably field the same team with which the McGillians were able to defeat MacDonald.

Carpenter, who played an outstanding game, will join Ivan Smith on the forward line. He originally played on the halfline.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

The Woman's Athletic Board, whose main function is to decide on policies pertaining to Women's athletics, held a meeting this past Thursday at R.V.C. This board consists of four faculty members, two graduate students, the presidents of M.W.S.A.A., the Women's Union, and I.A.C., and one member at large.

It was decided at the meeting, that official recognition would be given to those who worked on the water show. A manager's "M" will be given to the technical director and the swimming director of the show, and a "W" will be given to all committee chairman. The resolution, adopted by the M.W.S.A.A. last week, was passed by the board. It states: In the first term, a women may compete on either archery or tennis Intercollegiate teams and the swimming team; in the second term, she may compete on one of the Intercollegiate teams of skiing, volleyball, basketball, or volleyball.

Elections for these positions will be held on November 30.

DANCE TECHNIQUE TEACHER NAMED

Miss Yone Kviety, who has presented some outstanding modern dance concerts in Montreal during the last few years, including a concert at Moyse Hall under the auspices of SCOPE last February, will be teaching techniques to the Modern Dance Club during the month of November.

The club seeks to augment its understanding of modern dance by contact with various personalities in the field. One way of achieving this has been to send members to New York City to study with various teachers there during the summer. The other method is to bring the teacher to the club. By these means the members work towards the creation of dances which they present in concert each March.

To the Council and Members,
Students' Society of McGill University.

We have examined the balance sheet of the Students' Society of McGill University as at 30th June 1955 and the statements of revenue and expenditure and surplus for the year ended on that date and have obtained all the information and explanations we have required. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and statements of revenue and expenditure and surplus are properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the affairs of the society as at 30th June 1955 and the results of its operations for the year ended on that date, according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us and as shown by the books of the society.

ENTRIES TAKEN FOR SENIOR A & S Debating

Entries are still being accepted for the Arts and Science Senior Debating Tournament, with the deadline set for Thursday, Nov. 10th. The tournament itself will get under way at the end of November.

The winners and runners up will be awarded a trip to debate at an American University; with the winners getting a trophy as well.

All Senior Debaters in Arts and Science interested in this tournament should hand in name, phone number, and year to George at the Tuck Shop, not later than this Thursday. Entries not in the form of teams will not be accepted.

It should be noted that no Freshman, intercollegiate or otherwise, will be permitted to enter the tournament, as they are still considered to be Novices. No one entering the Senior Tournament will be eligible for the Novice tournament, to be held in the second term.

All entries become the property of the ASUS Debating Committee, and any questions as to eligibility will be decided by the Chairmen of the aforementioned committee.

'WET PAINT'

Marvin Jay is musical director of "Wet Paint." Jay, whose own orchestra has performed at several McGill functions, will handle orchestration and arrangements.

Beverly Bartram, assistant to the producer, has also had considerable revue experience, and officials feel she will aid "a great deal."

A new face is Lenny Max, associate producer, who is highly touted both in theatrical and administrative ability. Technical director Dick Dibble brings to the show a considerable knowledge of backstage operations. Business manager is Clarence Blatt, and advertising director Chuck Gardner.

Although casting has not yet begun, officials urged those interested in participating in this year's revue to leave their names at the revue office, in the Union basement, and to consult The Daily for further notices.

Mary Gameroff, former president of the Students Society and a Gold Key debator, will be the guest speaker at a special meeting of the Debating Union, Wednesday at 1 pm in the Walter M. Stewart Room.

He will discuss the approach of American university debaters, and how it can be countered in intercollegiate competition.

This is part of a special program being conducted this year by the Intercollegiate Debating Committee, to orientate local debaters for the Burlington competition.
